

PEOPLE NAME WINNERS

Fair Daughters of Missouri to Be Chosen to Represent State at Seattle Fair.

INTO LAND OF WONDERS

State and Local Pride Strongly Appealed To—Prizes That Suggest Pursue of Fortunatus for Those Who Do Not Win Trips

There is one point about the great Popularity Contest that has been inaugurated by the TRIBUNE in conjunction with the St. Louis Star and certain other newspapers in Missouri that should not be lost sight of, and that point is that this contest is preeminently the people's contest. The people of Missouri are invited by the TRIBUNE and the St. Louis Star, together with other papers interested, to first name the contestants for the magnificent $12000. worth of awards, and then by their votes to select from the candidates named by themselves, those to whom the splendid gifts shall be given.

Readers of the TRIBUNE are in a measure familiar with the general proposition but there is so much that is commendable in the whole thing that interest attaches even to brief repetition. For the grand prizes, two touring car, 1909 models, will be awarded—one to one of the candidates named from the city of St. Louis, the other going to the candidate outside of the city of St. Louis, who gets the highest number of votes, no matter by whom the votes are cast. These grand prizes will of course be most strenuously contended for, and it must be understood that every candidate nominated is a competitor for one of these sweepstake prizes.

Chief general interest, however, from the standpoint of popularity and widespread consideration attaches to the fifteen trips to the Alaska-Yukon Exposition. Of these fifteen trips five are to be awarded to candidates within the city of St. Louis, but the lion's share, ten of them, are to be awarded by the selections made by the people outside of the city of St. Louis; and of course, it is in these ten that the readers of the TRIBUNE are concerned.

Besides the touring cars and the trips to the Seattle Fair, there are to be distributed outside the city St. Louis five Baldwin Pianos, each of the value of $500; five vacation trips to beautiful summer resorts in Michigan, and five purses of gold, each of the value of $25. Just glance over the magnificent list of gifts and consider for a minute that these are to be bestowed absolutely without the cost of a cent to the winners. Truly it might be said that the originator of this popular contest must have counted on commanding the purse of Fortunatus.

There is absolutely no reason in the world, why the fair readers of the TRIBUNE should not capture one of these splendid prizes. The trips across the continent, as they have been planned, covering twenty-five days, including the stay at the Fair, are about the grandest, and generally valuable prizes that could have been selected for such a popularity contest. Aside from the State or local civic pride in seeing the State or a particular section of the State properly or convincingly represented, the trips themselves are of great value. It has been properly said that such a journey across the continent is in itself a liberal education. A wealth of information, a broadening experience, a grand view of life and its purposes. A knowledge of the greatness of the country—of which so many of us are wont to say so much and of which so many know so little—are to be secured by such a trip as cannot be obtained in any other possible way. A woman, who makes such a trip is coming back to her home broader minded.

The only way to secure votes is to clip the coupons from the TRIBUNE or the ST. LOUIS STAR or by subscribing for these papers at the following reduced rates:
